Who We Are

The New Wolsey Theatre is a regional theatre with a national reputation for the quality, range and reach of its work and for embracing cultural diversity in the widest sense. The theatre is central to the creative life of Suffolk and seeks to expand the horizons of audiences and artists by presenting a programme designed to entertain, enrich and challenge. The watchwords for all work are highest quality, greatest diversity and maximum accessibility.

The New Wolsey produces and presents a year-round programme of work for all ages in both the main theatre (400 seats) and the studio (104 seats), combining its own productions with a wide range of visiting theatre, music, comedy, and other performing arts.

The theatre is nationally renowned for its producing work both as sole producer and in collaboration with a diverse range of UK and international artists and companies. In recent years it has co-produced with other regional theatre including: Nottingham Playhouse, West Yorkshire Playhouse, Birmingham Repertory Theatre, Liverpool Everyman and Playhouse and touring companies such as Graeae, Talawa, Rationale, and Eclipse Theatre.

The theatre has a particular reputation for musical work, often employing actor-musicians. It is increasingly acknowledged as a leading player in the development of new musicals staging the world premieres of It's A Wonderful Life, 20th Century Boy and Mods & Rox. In 2013 we produced a national tour of the Tim Firth and Madness musical Our House, employing an actor-musician cast, and have recently co-produced a fully accessible, actor-musician production of Brecht and Weill's The Threepenny Opera.

The New Wolsey has also established a reputation for artist development, and in particular helping to nurture innovative companies and enabling them to produce work designed for middle scale touring. As part of this development programme, the theatre has worked in association with some of the most exciting and emerging companies in the UK and internationally, including in recent years Gecko, Analogue, Made In China, Annie Siddons, Slunglow, METIS, Transport and John Osborne.

The development of new talent is a priority for the New Wolsey and the annual PULSE Festival acts as a spring-board for fresh new artistic voices, as well as providing a home for risk-taking and cutting edge performance from more established artists. The festival provides a platform for the development and presentation of new work by regional, British and international artists of vision, and aims to nurture artistic ambition and excellence across a range of art forms. PULSE presents work across a variety of genres from comedy to dance and everything in between, in various forms from tour-ready work to rehearsed readings and works at an advanced stage of development.

Alongside its work on stage, the New Wolsey runs an extensive Creative Learning programme using the arts to develop creativity, unlock potential, explore diversity and celebrate identity. We use the productions, artists, skills and resources of the Theatre to increase participants understanding of how theatre works, to develop their own creativity, to broaden their knowledge about a subject or the world around them, or to give them a better understanding about themselves. We apply the techniques we use in a rehearsal room to give participant the opportunity to see what motivates their own behaviour. We deliver a service to schools and colleges, a programme of projects and events for children, young people and the community, and a platform for students, arts educators and teachers to gain new skills and share good practice. We have a prolific out of school offer, and have specialised in theatre made for children and young people that places their artistic voice at the centre of the decision making, the content and the work.

The New Wolsey Theatre has a proven track record of championing disabled led theatre and in 2013 launched 'Agent for Change' - an initiative to create more engagement and opportunities for deaf and disabled theatre professionals, audience members and participants both at the New Wolsey and with collaborating partners. The theatre is dedicated to providing access for deaf and disabled audiences to shows, events and information ensuring that any person with a disability can participate fully. Part of this promise is to provide a programme of BSL (British Sign Language) Interpreted, Audio Described, and Captioned performances.

In 2007 the New Wolsey Theatre was identified as one of the only 15 organisations in the UK to participate in AmbITion, Arts Council initiative created to assist arts organisations in the implementation of 21st Century digital technologies into the arts sector. The funding enabled the New Wolsey to develop digitally across its business, operational and artistic functions. We have recently been accepted into the Culture Hive Digital Academy to further this work.

The New Wolsey received the 2012 TMA award for Most Welcoming Theatre, and was nominated as The Stage Award's Regional Theatre of the Year 2014. As a not-for-profit organisation and a registered charity, we rely on a blend of income streams, funding from the Arts Council, Suffolk County Council and Ipswich Borough Council as well as donations, individual giving and corporate support, all of which are invaluable.

Our mission statement and further information can be found on our website.

The Ramps on the Moon Project

Following on from the highly successful production of The Threepenny Opera in Spring 2014, and in recognition of the under representation and employment of disabled people throughout our industry, particularly in "mainstream" theatre, a consortium of theatres successfully applied for a Strategic Touring Fund to undertake a six year programme of work. Integrating disabled and non-disabled performers and practitioners, this programme aims to achieve a step change in the employment and artistic opportunities for disabled performers and creative teams , and a cultural change in the participating organisations to enable accessibility to become a central part of their thinking and aesthetics.

Our Country's Good is the third touring production made in association with the Ramps on the Moon Project, produced by Nottingham Playhouse, which will tour in Spring 2018.

Further information on this project can be found at: www.rampsonthemoon.co.uk/about/

StartEast Project

The New Anglia Cultural Board has developed StartEast, a project to make Norfolk and Suffolk places where enterprising, creative people can start up and build sustainable, cultural enterprises. StartEast will develop and deliver business support and investment for artists and creative people planning to develop and grow a cultural business. The programme works across three strands: Artists, Entertainment Services (Technical/Logistics) and Applied Arts (where participatory activity is delivered in health, education and social care settings). StartEast launched in May 2017 and is led by the New Wolsey Theatre in Ipswich with support from a regional partnership Steering Group.
